

FREE COINAGE BILL BACKED BY LABOR.

CONGRESSMAN HARTMAN PROPOSES A SILVER MEASURE.

Thirty-One Mistakes Have Been Found in the Tariff Bill; Only Three of These Are Believed To Be Serious—The President Not Likely To Sign.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Congressman Hartman, of Montana, introduced a resolution this morning for the free coinage of silver. The resolution has the approval of the leading labor organizations.

Thirty-one errors have been found in the tariff bill so far. Only three of them are very serious. President Cleveland will return to Washington from Gray Gables to-morrow, but it is by no means certain he will sign the tariff bill after he reaches the national capital. An intimation conveyed by Secretary Thurber yesterday gave the impression that the President would not sign the bill. Mr. Thurber declares congress would in all probability be here next week. This is construed to mean that the President will allow the tariff bill to become a law without affixing his signature to the measure. Speaker Crisp said nothing has been heard from the President as to his intentions regarding the tariff bill, but he understood the chief magistrate would be in Washington ready for business at the old stand Thursday morning. He was not prepared to say when congress might adjourn, and the President would have all day Monday in which to sign or veto the bill, the required ten days expiring Aug. 27.

Vice-President Stevenson was non-committal on the subject of the President's intention in regard to the tariff bill or the question of an adjournment sine die by the second session of the Fifty-third congress.

Chairman Sayers of the appropriations committee said one appropriation bill—the deficiency—needed the signature of the President of the United States to become a law, and the only thing that was keeping congressmen in Washington arose from their anxiety to know what would be done with the tariff bill. No other important business remained to be transacted, and as all the appropriation bills had been agreed to congress could adjourn at an hour's notice.

NO SENATE QUORUM.

House Bills Reported Back and Placed on the Calendar.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—For fifteen or twenty minutes yesterday the business of the senate was suspended while the sergeant-at-arms was sent in search of an actual quorum. The senate was eighteen short of a voting quorum, only twenty-five senators having voted on a non-political motion, thus showing that congress is slowly disintegrating.

Mr. Harris reported the amended sugar bill and the coal, iron ore, and barbed wire bills. Inquiries were made as to what had become of amendments offered to the sugar bill, but Mr. Harris said it was not usual to report back amendments rejected in committee. The bills placing wool, coal, and iron on the free list were ordered placed on the calendar.

The house bill to provide a national home for aged and infirm colored people went over until the next session. The senate bill to push the claim of the United States against the estate of Leland Stanford was passed.

EARLY ADJOURNMENT LIKELY.

Ask Unanimous Consent for the Passage of Bills in the House.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Less than fifty members were present when the house met at noon yesterday. There were the usual indications that congress was on the eve of adjournment. Mr. Sayers, chairman of the appropriations committee, secured unanimous consent for the consideration of a bill appropriating $9,000 for an additional force for the collection of internal revenue and $9,000 for carrying into effect the arbitrations now pending between the United States and Venezuela. It was passed without objection.

Mr. McCreary (dem., Ky.), chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a joint resolution congratulating the Hawaiian republic on the perfect resumption of the powers and abilities of self-government. The resolution was offered in lieu of the Boutelle resolution. Owing to the absence of Mr. Boutelle, Mr. Bayne (rep., N. Y.) objected. Mr. Bland (dem., Mo.) then demanded the regular order.

GEORGE M. PULLMAN CALLED FOR

Strike Commission Requests Him To Appear—Debs Tells About Grievances.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—George M. Pullman has been asked to appear before the labor commission to give testimony as to the difficulty between himself and his employees. It was said that Chairman Carroll D. Wright of the commission had a personal interview on Saturday with Mr. Pullman and informed him that he would be requested to testify. Just what Mr. Pullman's answer was could not be learned, because Mr. Wright positively refused to give at this time any information as to what witnesses the commission might call before it. Whether Mr. Pullman had acceded to or declined to comply with the request, and what course the commission would pursue in the event of Mr. Pullman proving contumacious, would all appear in proper time in the proceedings of the commission, Mr. Wright said.

It was said also that requests similar to that sent to Mr. Pullman were sent to several of the general managers. So far as could be learned, only one of them has responded thus far. The largest audience, that has yet attended the meetings of the labor commission was present at yesterday's session, the attraction being the presence of President Debs.

"Please tell in your way the history of the recent strike and boycott, Mr. Debs," said Commissioner Wright.

"Early in May I received at my home in Terre Haute a telegram from Vice-President Howard at Chicago informing me that there was a probability of a strike at Pullman," said he. "We had just won a strike on the Great Northern road and I feared that some of our men, flushed with the triumph of the Great Northern strike, might precipitate us into other disturbances. This was not desired. I came to Chicago on May 11 and went to Pullman to see for myself the condition of the employees.

"I found the regulations of the income and expenses of the Pullman employees were so adjusted that every cent the employees earned found its way back in one way or another into the pockets of the Pullman company. The wages had been reduced until the men could not earn enough to live on; and not only that, but the men were going steadily into debt. I found the employees could not leave Pullman if they wanted to. They told me that conditions there were extremely repugnant to many of them, but that they had not the means to leave the town. Their wages had been reduced and they were obliged to draw on their savings, and now these were gone. The employees had nothing to live on and something had to be done.

"After my investigation I was satisfied that the employees were justified in striking, and I resolved as president of the American Railway Union to do all in my power, under the law and in justice, to fight the wrongs of those people."

"Were not some inflammatory telegrams sent out by you?" asked Commissioner Kernan.

"No inflammatory telegrams were sent out, as I understand it," replied Mr. Debs.

"How about the 'buy a gun' telegram?"

"I can explain that. One of our secretaries was L. P. Benedict, from Butte, Mont. Part of his duty was to reply to some of the hundreds of telegrams we received. I could not attend personally to all of them and Benedict sent the 'buy a gun' telegram to his immediate superior, the man who employed him at Butte. The phrase 'buy a gun' was a playful expression which the two men had frequently used between themselves. 'Save your money and buy a gun' was a sort of by-word between them. The man at Butte understood it as a playful expression and has written a letter here exculpating Mr. Benedict. The expression 'Save your money and buy a gun' had nothing whatever to do with the strike." Mr. Debs promised to produce the letter.

Mill Hands Are Out.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 21.—This morning the cotton operatives began their general strike and nearly 11,000 are idle. The machinery of but five of the twenty-seven mills in the city is in motion and it is thought that these mills will soon be shut down with the others.

The manufacturers have nothing to say, but the notices of a reduction against which the help rebel are still posted. Secretary Ross of the Spinner's union stated this morning that the members of his union had lined up for a long struggle, and confidently expected that it would be of six months' duration.

ROUTED BY THE JAPS WITH HEAVY LOSS

OVER 1,000 CHINESE SOLDIERS KILLED IN SONCHWAN.

Only Seventy of the Attacking Party Slain—Primitive Methods of Warfare Used by the Besieged Forces—Latest News From the East Concerning the Korean Dispute.

SHICHU-GEN, COREA, Aug. 3, via San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 21.—In the battle which has just been fought at Sonchwan 1,000 Chinese were slain.

Sonchwan is strongly fortified and its regular force consists of 17,000 soldiers. The Japanese determined to capture the arms and provisions and bait the army by a clever bit of intrigue. They gave out that they were going to march back to A-San, and in fact they did parade for a considerable distance in that direction, but no sooner were they convinced of the success of their scheme in making the Chinese believe they had left the settlement than they marched with a rush straight up to the fortifications, attacking them in a body, capturing the fort in the course of five hours' fighting.

The Chinese were unprepared and for the sake of truth be it known they were "chin chinning" the war joss—that is bowing and firing crackers to a big wooden deity. While the Chinese lost 1,000 killed but seventy Japanese were killed.

The Chinese, with their usual cowardice, deserted, and when given orders to resist the advance of the enemy turned and fell upon their swords, preferring to commit suicide rather than be slain by the Japanese. The Japanese officers and men fought like tigers. Some of the methods of warfare used were ridiculously gruesome and harrowing. For instance, the Chinese, it is told, used old-fashioned bowls slung on poles and filled with sulphuric and other bad-smelling, deadly acids, which kill, perhaps, more quickly than a rifle shot. One bowl cast in among a dozen soldiers kills every man in a few seconds. The Mongols also resorted to wooden axes and to long bamboo poles. Many of them threw away their guns when they caught a glimpse of the enemy surrounding them.

ENGLAND'S ACT APPLAUDED.

London Globe Indorses Refusal to Permit Enlistment.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The Globe this afternoon applauds the government for acting with vigor in preventing a violation of the enlistment act, saying:

"It is plain that it does not intend to allow another Alabama to be fitted out. We were very sore about the Alabama decision, yet there is no doubt that it was, in principle, perfectly right."

The Globe's commendation of the government was caused by the fact that it ordered the customs officers at Newcastle, England, to seize, under the foreign-enlistment act, a torpedo-catcher built at the Elswick works for China and to detain that vessel until she is condemned or released by process of law. The foreign-enlistment act makes it a misdemeanor to assist a foreign state at war with a friendly state by enlisting in its service or by supplying it with war vessels or warlike stores.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 21.—The official investigation into the recent Verasteguel-Romero duel, in which the former was killed, is a farce from beginning to end. There were a dozen witnesses to the affair of honor.

ALTGELD AT PULLMAN.

Sees Starvation on All Sides in the "Model Town."

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Gov. Altgeld went to Pullman yesterday a little in doubt as to the truth of the relief committee's statement that 1,000 families in the model town were literally starving in their homes. He didn't think that such a condition could possibly exist in Chicago. After he had spent an hour or two among the tenements blocks and in the shanty districts of the brick yards, and found every man, woman and child in desperate straits for want of fuel, food and clothing, he was satisfied that the time for immediate relief had come.

"There is no doubt," he said, "about the absolute distress and want in Pullman. Relief has got to come from some source, and come soon."

The governor said it was the first time he had ever been asked for aid to help starving people and he wanted to think it over. This morning at 10 o'clock he will receive the relief committee of the Pullman strikers and ways and means of assisting the suffering will be discussed. In all probability the meeting will bear fruit in a proclamation calling upon the people of the state for help.

ILLINOIS MINERS TO MEET.

Will Consider the Situation in a Convention at Springfield To-day.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 21.—The coal trade in Illinois is in such an unsettled condition and miners are working under such varying prices and conditions, that the industry is unprofitable to both operators and miners. In the hope that "order may be brought out of chaos," as President Crawford puts it, a state convention of miners has been called to meet in this city to-day.

The convention ought to bring together from 150 to 200 miners according to the basis of representation fixed in the call, but the attendance will probably be small owing to the poverty of the miners. A few delegates have already arrived. State President Crawford does not venture a prediction as to the action the convention is likely to take.

He hopes the Oxford team will see fit to visit the United States next year.

SONS OF VETERANS.

Order Begins Its Session at Davenport, Iowa.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Aug. 21.—Davenport is gay with flags and bunting in honor of the sons of Union defenders, who are assembled here from all parts of the country. There are several hundred delegates and uniformed members of the guard here, with additional arrivals expected. This will be the most important encampment. The reports show the commandery-in-chief and the various division commanders to be in better financial condition than ever before, although the membership of the order in good standing has decreased during the last year on account of backwardness in payment of the annual dues. The number of camps, according to reports June 30, was 1,257, against 1,377 a year before; and the membership 24,019, against 38,073 in 1893.

One of the important recommendations of the commander-in-chief is that the present guard, an independent organization, be disbanded and the remnants reorganized under the jurisdiction of the various division commanders of the order; also that the order of Sons of Veterans be organized and conducted on a military basis, and that its name be changed to the Military Order of the Sons of Veterans.

GROVER AND JOHN ARE BAD MEDICINE

THEREFORE THE PRICE OF GOOD MEDICINE RISES.

The War Raging in China and the Change in the Tariff Revenue Schedule Send Copper and Alcohol Up—Serious Mistake Made by the Democrats.

If the Chinese and Japs don't adjust their slant-eyed difficulties and quit slicing each other up, there will be trouble in Janesville.

Cleveland and the wear-your-shirt-on-the-outside-of-your-pants fellows are equally to blame. The president has made some mistakes, but the last one is the most serious of all.

You can't run the town without camphor.

And when you want camphor you have got to go to the meek and lowly elephant. When the last mentioned biped is engaged in being "licked" he has no time to be "billed" chips. Some of the local druggists have been informed that the prices of certain drugs with names as legible as John's "washee tickle" have "ris." Camphor and opium are the two principal items and the depression that would follow the closing of local opium joints can be better imagined than described, while it would be equally hard on some families who use it for all purposes to get along without "camp-fire."

Alcohol Goes Up Too.

Lameness and soreness will probably be on the increase from this on. It is hard to tell which is the hardest on the country, too many Chinese and Japanese here, the same fighting at home, or a cross bred mongrel and cowardly tariff bill.

Alcohol has "ris too."

This is due to the change in the internal revenue schedule under the well known and justly celebrated Wilson-Cleveland-Gorman-Sens's-Hill-House-patch-up-bill. When the war among the slant eyed heathen sends camphor booming and the tariff tinkers send alcohol a booming what are people to do for a healing lotion? The rise in the price of alcohol is really a serious matter. Janesville boasts of an "Alcohol Club" composed of prominent and influential citizens (in the lick-solicitation line.) A rise in the price of "white light" would jeopardize their large interest, and they will all vote against the move that curtails the amount they get for ten cents. Probably Grover Cleveland and congress did not realize this when they "went and did it." But upon their own heads be their mistakes.

MISS EDITH HOWE WILL SING.

She Was One of the Prime Donne in the Carl Rosa Company Last Season.

Miss Edith Howe, the soprano, who was one of the prime donne of the Carl Rosa Royal English opera company last season, has decided to appear on the operatic stage in this country during the coming winter. This will be Miss Howe's first appearance in public in this country. At the close of last season she declined a re-engagement with the Carl Rosa opera company, and came to this country to visit her uncle, Lawyer William F. Howe. Miss Howe began her musical studies in the royal academy of music in London, and during her course there won two medals. She then went to Milan, where she studied for a year under Signor Giovanni Vanni. Refusing several offers to make her debut in Italy she returned to England, and was at once engaged for the Carl Rosa company. She made her first appearance as Michaela, in "Carmen," at the Gayety theater, Dublin, and during the season she sang in all the principal cities of Great Britain, appearing in a number of leading soprano roles with phenomenal success.

Where no Space Is Wasted.

In many tropical countries the roof of the house is a very important part of the building, being put to a variety of uses not dreamt of in colder lands. In the one-story houses of Peru, for instance, it is not uncommon to find the mules and horses lodged on the first floor, and the family on the floor above, while on the great flat roof there may often be seen fowls, pigs, goats and even cows. The cows are taken aloft when they are merely calves, and spend the rest of their lives on the roof.

Lodge No. 364 B. of R. T. give an excursion from Aurora to Devils Lake, August 26. Fare from Janesville to the lake and return 50 cents. Trains leave Northwestern depot at 10 a. m. Returning leave the lake at 7 p. m.

SHE WANTED THAT NAIL.

Believing It Responsible for Tears and Swears She Was After It.

This is a woman's age, and a business man who knows says there is positively nothing she will not undertake. He was lounging in his office the other day when a well-dressed, comely little woman appeared. She wore a resolute expression in addition to other apparel and in her hand she carried a large tack-raiser.

"Good morning," she said, winningly. "Is this Mr. Cash's office? Will you please tell me which chair it is that has that nail in it?"

The business man was confused—the nice little woman was a total stranger to him. He answered mildly: "What chair? What nail?"

"Why," she exclaimed, "my husband has come home three times recently with dreadful holes in his coat and trousers, and he said he tore them on a chair in your office. I'm about tired darning and patching those rents and thought it would be more sensible and satisfactory to come down here, pull the nail out and be done with it. Don't you think so?"

Still in a trance the merchant agreed with her, found the offending chair, extracted the nail and with many thanks and smiles the enterprising little woman withdrew.

M'KINNEY'S COLTS RACED YESTERDAY.

G. W. HOWE GOT SECOND MON-EY; COUPON GOT NONE.

M. E. McHenry Handled the Former, While George West and Dick Benson Piloted the Latter—John Kelly's Show Pretty Good To-Day, Although Distanced Yesterday.

H. D. McKinney's colt, G. W. Howe, won second money in the Northwestern Kentucky Breeder's Futurity $236 stake at Chicago yesterday. M. E. McHenry drove the Janesville horse but costly breaks allowed the race to be a walk over the Almira Highwood, A. J. Canton's colt. Coupon, Mr. McKinney's other colt got fifth place in the $1,500 two year old stake. West and Benson were Coupon's driver and the best time was 2:24. Whalebone was a handy winner. Alice Director did not start in the pacing race.

John Kelly had Jennie McCoy in the 2:30 pacing race at Chicago yesterday but after riding two heats in the dust he was distanced. In the 2:11 pacing class today he had W. W. P. Among his competitors being Two Strike, Rocker and Kissell's Dallas, all of whom were in the Janesville free for all as well as half a dozen others. W. W. P. it is said, stands a good chance in the race, his whirlwind way of finishing adding confidence to him.

Ethel A., the pretty little grey pacer, who won the colt pacing race here in 2:17, captured the 2:35 pacing purse at Chicago in three straight heats, the best time being 2:13. Sphynxetta, G. W. Spear's horse who also won here, was the only one that Ethel A. had to fear.

Janesville people will be much interested in the outcome of Alix's trial for the world's record at Chicago today and the prediction is freely made that 2:04 will cease to be the mark after the mile is trotted.

POLLY'S REVEILLE.

Calling Coffee Cocos Became a Nuisance.

Some years ago, when stationed on the coast of West Africa, I bought a gray parrot, which in appearance greatly surpassed the general run of these birds both in size and beauty of plumage, and which, though I paid little or no attention to his education, turned out to be a remarkably apt scholar.

The indication of his powers was a perfectly successful attempt to whistle the reveille, which, of course, he had heard every morning since his introduction to the barracks, and before long he had mastered nearly every bugle call known in the British army. One morning I was awakened by his calling in a loud tone, and in an exact imitation of my own voice: "Coffee, Coffee! you imp of darkness, where are you? Hurry up and bring my cocoa." Coffee being a little native, as black as your boot, whom I employed to work for me. The incident naturally tickled my risibilities, and I laughed immoderately, the bird joining in the cachination, and again imitating my tones exactly.

From that time on he was liable to pick up anything heard and repeat it at inopportune moments, which was all very well in its way, but was apt to grow monotonous. Regularly at 5 a. m. he would start a monologue, interspersed with bugle calls and diabolical peals of laughter, which awoke me. I never am very amiable under circumstances of that kind, and would leave my shoes or the first missile that came handy at him. If I happened to go anywhere near the mark he would ejaculate: "Poor Polly! Poor, poor Polly!" in such doleful accents that my wrath was invariably converted into laughter, in which the bird joined with great gusto. Sometimes I would yell to the boy and say: "Coffee, take this infernal bird away!" and all down the corridor, like the very echo of my voice, would come: "Take this infernal bird away, bird away!"

"Polly" after a while became quite a character, and I was offered considerable sums for him, but I decided to take him home and make him a present to the "governor." Of course, on shipboard he was among the sailors, and equally, of course, he earned quite a number of commands incidental to their calling, together with a less desirable accompaniment of bad language. When I got him home to an imaginary crew to "square away the main brace," and various other nautical feats was a caution to snakes, accompanying his commands with a string of profanity that would make the toughest old salt hide his head with shame or envy, and invariably indulge in these tricks when we had lady callers.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

BRIEF BITS OF HUMOR.

She Was Mistaken.

The gentlemanly and urbane peripatetic had walked boldly in and tackled the housekeeper on her own kitchen doorstep.

"Good morning," he said, "I thought perhaps I might get a bite to eat here, lady."

"I think," she answered, in the tone of a woman who was tired of feeding tramps, "that you are laboring under a wrong impression."

"I beg your pardon," he responded.

"I said you were laboring under a wrong impression," she snapped back at him.

"Good morning," he said, turning away, "I never labor under any circumstances."—Detroit Free Press.

When the Liver Reprimands Us

For our neglect of it by inflicting upon us sick headache, by dyeing the skin yellow, coating the tongue with fur, producing vertigo, pains in the right side and souring the breath, we are fit for less than lunatics if we disregard the chastisement. If we call Hostetter's Stomach Bitters to our aid, tranquility and health follow speedily, and with the departure of the symptoms mentioned, departs also irregularity of the bowels, which invariably attends disorder of the liver. In malarial complaints the liver is always involved, and it is a fortunate circumstance that this fine anti-bilious medicine is also the finest specific in existence for every form of malarial disease. Nor is it less efficacious for dyspepsia, failure of appetite and strength, nervousness and a rheumatic tendency. It renews the ability to sleep, and greatly promotes convalescence after wasting diseases.

Another Caisson Explodes.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Another caisson belonging to a battery of the Second artillery blew up yesterday afternoon. The cause was exactly similar to that of the terrible mishap that befell Battery F, Capt. Vose, on Grand boulevard July 16. A defective shrapnel fuse caused both of them. But in the first accident three artillerymen and a cavalryman were killed and a great many citizens and soldiers were hurt. In that of yesterday nobody was injured. A rigid investigation will be made.

Battle of Fallen Timbers.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 21.—About 5,000 people assembled yesterday on the battlefield of Fallen Timbers, on the Maumee river, twelve miles above this city, to celebrate the centennial of Wayne's victory. Here, Aug. 20, 1794, he defeated the Wyandot, Ottawa and Delaware Indians, breaking the power of their confederacy, and securing peace to the then northwestern frontier. Resolutions requesting congress to mark the spot by a suitable monument were adopted.

Corn Meal Trust Denied.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 21.—A strong denial is made by the managers of both the corn meal mills in St. Louis of the story sent out from Kansas City of the formation of a corn meal mill trust.

Rice, the Illinois superintendent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, announces that the company has abandoned the division headquarters at Fulton, the terminus for the Chicago division on the north and the Chicago, Burlington & Northern on the south. The men employed there will be divided between Galesburg and St. Louis. The power will be transferred here and be operated from Galesburg.

Polish Catholics Remain Quiet. CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 21.—The convention of the independent Polish Catholics, which was to open in this city yesterday, was postponed until to-day. There has been no further disorder after yesterday's riotous demonstrations between the factions of the local Poles, when one man was shot but not seriously injured and several others were slightly injured.

SOME WELL KNOWN FACES

A Successful Railroad Manager.

John M. Egan, who as president of the General Managers' association represented the railroads during the recent great strike at Chicago, was born in Springfield, Mass., 46 years ago. He entered the machine shop of the Illinois Central railroad at Amboy, Ill., as an apprentice when he was 18. He was soon transferred to the clerical department and received rapid promotion. He has been chief engineer of the Southern Minnesota and Canadian Pacific railroads and general superintendent of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba. In 1890 he was elected president of the Chicago, St. Paul and Kansas City railroad, which office he resigned last April. Mr. Egan lives in St. Paul.

TOOK A MEAN ADVANTAGE.

Engaged Man Insisted on Kissing His Fiancee in a Street Car.

A young man and a young woman changed from a Belt line to a Fourteenth street car at the avenue, Washington, and sat in one of the seats in the first car. He was carrying an overcoat and a satchel and was evidently going away. She wore a shirt waist and dark skirt, as if starting out on a shopping expedition. Just before they reached Sixth street he leaned over her and said quietly, so quietly that only the reporter back of them could hear: "I am going to kiss you good-by when I leave the car."

"Oh, please don't," she said appealingly; "not before all these people." But he was decided and said persistently: "Yes I shall; so raise your veil. If you try to resist people will see it and wonder about you, and they will look at you all the way up-town after I get off." She glanced up shyly and then slowly raised her veil. He bent over her and kissed her and no one in the car looked up. A few people wondered why she was so anxious to show the diamond ring on the left hand, but nobody but the reporter appreciated the fact that she was trying to justify the kissing by means of an engagement ring.

THE CROSBY COURSE OF ILLUSTRATED LECTURES.

Residents of this place who cannot spend a year away from business (and a small fortune besides), among the echoing valleys and ice fields of Switzerland, or along the shores of the classic Nile, will soon have the opportunity of seeing colossal pictures—15 feet square—of those countries, and hearing them explained by a man who knows both their meaning and their history.

Prof. E. C. CROSBY, OF CHICAGO.

is a man of middle age, his life having been spent in study and travel. The old Nile, one of the Bible rivers, visited by Abraham, studied by Herodotus, overlooked by colossal gods and temples, presents an impressive history. The frosty peaks of Europe's Liberty Garden, and the hot, brassy skies that overhang those wondrous shores of the Nile—countries strangely opposed in nearly every feature—seem brought into the very presence of the audience.

FERRIN CASE WILL BE TRIED AGAIN

DEFENDANTS HAVE ALL TO GAIN; NOTHING TO LOSE.

Getting the Full Penalty They Took an Appeal From the Beloit Justice's Sentence to the Municipal Court, in Hopes of Getting Their Punishment Shortened.

A CASE which will draw a full house and in which the defendants have all to gain and nothing to lose, will be tried in the municipal court. It is the action in which Harvey Bundy, Neil Mahaney and Bant Brederson are defendants and Edith Ferrin is the complaining witness. The defendants are charged with abusing the girl in a shocking manner. Three of the young men on trial at Beloit, were sentenced to six months in jail. This was the maximum penalty. One of the other defendants got ninety days in jail which time he is serving but the other three are in hopes of getting a lighter sentence.

The St. Paul railway company have changed the dates of the selling of excursion tickets for the great conclave of Knights of Pythias, to comply more with the convenience of their patrons. The conclave will be held at Washington D. C., August 27 to September 5, and they will sell tickets August 24 and 25, good for return until September 8. An additional limitation to September 15 can be secured upon depositing the ticket with the joint agent at Washington before September 6.

I HAVE enjoyed very much the three or four illustrated lectures I have heard you give. The pictures were well chosen, and were well projected on the screen, while the descriptive lecture was worthy of the fine pictures. Rev. A. W. Gould, Sec. Western Christian Conference, 175 Dearborn Street, Chicago. This lecture will be given at the First Methodist church tonight and Thursday night.

A LONG geared man with a broken silk tie, two grips, a sweater and a husky voice, tried to catch the Beloit train at the St. Paul depot this morning. The train had a rod or two the start of him, and increased the lead in spite of the long-gear man's legs. When he came panting back to the depot he said that "he'd caught it if he hadn't had so much grip."

His illustrations are first class. He is thoroughly conversant with the subject he presents. A STORY and a half dwelling house and a barn were sold Saturday for $187.50. They are the buildings on the Martin Halverson property. S. A. Chase got the house for $152.50 and George C. ST. PAUL COMPANY GIVES US A BOOST.

BENEFITS FOLLOW CHANGE OF DIVISION HEADQUARTERS.

Men Have Invested Over $35,000 in Real Estate, and Their Pay Amounts to $3,200 a Month—Company Are Planning a $13,000 Repair Shop.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad gave Janesville a great boost when they moved the division headquarters here from Monroe.

It meant the investment of $40,000 or more in Janesville and the removal of forty men, seventeen of them married and with families. Here are the figures to back the assertion up, and the list is but a partial one. The following men have removed to Janesville, their removal being purely the result of the change in headquarters, and have invested money in homes, etc., like this:

Thomas Fox	$3,500
John Fatter	2,500
Con. Harrison	4,500
George Corson	3,800
William Ross	4,800
N. Dunwiddle	2,600
H. S. Lugg	2,800
F. Fraumfelder	3,300
Charles Mooney	3,700
William Dee	4,000
Total	$35,500

That is the total investment made by these men alone. In addition there are others who have bought their own homes and the others, single men or those who rent these houses, who spend their money here. The pay of these men will average $80 a month which makes a $3,200 which comes into Janesville at the end of each thirty days, not one dollar of which was had before the change took place.

Build a $13,000 Shop.

Not alone is the money invested here to stay, but the company is to put in more capital. At Monroe a building 100x40 feet was necessary and one of the same size will be built here. The plans are prepared and show a building, etc., that will represent $13,000. The company has now in place a new sixty foot iron turntable of the largest size, most improved pattern and expensive make, the same as are used in Chicago. The machinery received here will aggregate nearly $5,000. Just when the new building will be erected is not known, but it cannot be a very distant date as at present there is not room in the round house for the engines and several have to be kept out of doors, thus making the hiring of an extra man necessary to look after them. Sunday's six or seven engines can be seen standing on the sidings at the round house unprotected from the elements. It has been said that but for the current railroad troubles the new building would be built this season.

BOATLOAD OF QUEENS AND DUKES

Captain Buchholz Entertains the Patients From the County Insane Asylum.

A motley crowd filled the Columbia today. In the bow sat an elderly woman who crooned softly to herself and declared that she was the queen of England.

"I'm six hundred years old today" said another woman confidently, "but you would hardly think I was more than four hundred would you? Well, you see I was dead for two years not long ago and that gave me plenty of time to rest."

A man who said he was Jay Gould wanted to buy the boat from Captain Buchholz for $18,000, but the captain said he expected to make that much off his next Sunday school picnic and couldn't afford to sell. The man tapped his head mournfully and walked away.

The boat load was made up of Superintendent Allen and patients from the county asylum. The steamer was chartered and the demented folk spent three hours on the water very pleasantly.

MCKINLEY IS NOT AN A. P. A.

He Denies a Story Printed by the Catholic Citizen.

Two weeks ago the Catholic Citizen, of Milwaukee, published a statement to the effect that the vice president of the Ohio A. P. A. had declared in public that Major McKinley was a member of the order. Major Pat Flynn, of Rockford, of the famous "Mulligan Guards," who saved a son of Mrs. McKinley on the battlefield, wrote to governor as to the truth of the statement. Yesterday he received an answer from Governor McKinley, stating that he was not nor never had been a member of the order known as the A. P. A.

VANDALS DESPOIL THE HANSON COMPANY'S BIG ENGINE.

Stole the Oil Cup and Air Tubes, Leaving the Big Machine Powerless—Works Will Start When the Repairs Are Made—The Salesmen Are Engaged.

Wheels will buzz in the Hanson Furniture Company's factory, as soon as some repairs can be made to the engine. Some days ago unknown vandals broke into the engine room and stole several oil cups and air tubes from the big engine. The lack of the air tubes prevented the running of the engine, but others have been ordered from the east. At a committee meeting arrangements were made to send out several men to sell goods on commission as well as two regular traveling agents. The Hanson goods are fine and are always in demand.

BOYS CAUSE A BAD RUNAWAY.

Mrs. H. R. Johnson's Collar Bone Broken Through Their Mischief.

Boys full of impishness caused an ugly runaway on North Main street last evening. Mrs. H. R. Johnson, wife of the C. M. & St. Paul agent sustained a broken shoulder blade and her son, Walter A. Johnson, was badly bruised. They were driving on Main street about half past eight o'clock, when some boys threw dust in their faces and also in the face of the horse. The animal became frightened and ran away. Near the New Doty Works the buggy collided with a hitching post, throwing both of the occupants to the ground.

Oscar Cobb Able To Hear.

The following letter from Oscar Cobb, the well-known Chicago architect, will be read with interest by the readers of the Gazette.

Office of Oscar Cobb, Architect. Rooms 1509-10 Manhattan Bldg. Chicago, Feb. 12, 1894.

Dr. H. A. McChesney, Janesville, Wisconsin:

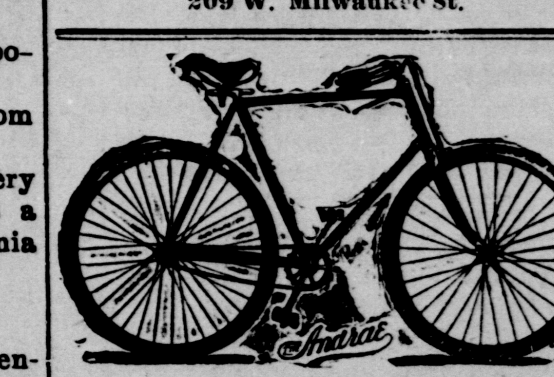

Dear Sir:—As you know I began treatment two weeks ago for a deafness of ten years' standing caused by a catarrh stoppage around the ear, creating a continuous ringing noise that made it impossible to hear or catch a sound at any considerable distance. In that brief space (14 days) I find myself so greatly relieved that in going to church yesterday and occupying a pew in the rear, I was surprised that I could hear distinctly every word from the pulpit, a blessing that I have not enjoyed for years. I join most heartily in recommending your Catarrh Cure to everybody afflicted with catarrh in any form, and particularly of the head and throat, and advise them to try your medicines, as they will certainly find immediate and sure relief, and I firmly believe a permanent cure.

Your friend and well wisher, OSCAR COBB. Dr. McChesney's Catarrh Cure is on sale by all drugstores. Don't experiment with inferior remedies.

OUR FLAG IN COREA WELL DEFENDED

THE FIRST TO TEACH THE COREANS MANNERS.

How the Massacre of the Crew of the American Schooner Gen. Sherman
Was Avenged by Our Asiatic Squadron in 1871.

IN ORDER TO trace the history of America's relations with Corea and the general opening up of the country to the influences of western civilization, it is necessary to go back to the year 1866. At that time Corea was the "hermit kingdom" in more than name. The present king had ascended the throne a couple of years before, but being a mere boy the government was wholly in the hands of his regent father, who was a bitter hater both of foreigners and of change. Some French missionaries, who had braved the law of the country and boldly advanced into the native cities, were horribly massacred in 1866, and a French expedition sent to chastise the Coreans ascended the Seoul river and attacked several forts, but lost so heavily that the expedition sailed away without having accomplished the end aimed at, and having left the Corean soldiers with the impression that the foreigner could not fight, and that the Corean was invincible.

In the same year an American schooner, the General Sherman, chartered by a British trader, sailed for China on an experimental voyage of trade and discovery. The vessel entered the Ta-tong river and never returned. It was burned by natives, and those on board were slaughtered to the last man. On the news of this massacre being received Commander—now Rear Admiral—R. W. Schufeldt, visited the peninsula with the war steamer Wachusett on a mission of inquiry. No satisfaction, however, was obtained, and a similar mission, under Commander Febiger, of the Shenandoah, despatched a few months later, proved equally barren. Finally, in 1871, our Asiatic Squadron, consisting of the flagship Colorado, the corvettes Alaska and Benicia, with the gunboats Monocacy and Palos, was despatched under Rear Admiral Rodgers, to Corea waters.

It was intended to secure a treaty for the protection of Americans shipwrecked on the coast of Corea, to inquire into the Gen. Sherman affair and to obtain if possible a treaty of commerce. Peaceful negotiations, however, proved to be impossible. The natives garrisoned the forts along the river and prepared to make things hot for the foreigners should they attempt to ascend the river toward the capital. A survey expedition, under Capt. Horner Blake, consisting of the Monocacy and Palos, with four steam launches, was sent up the river. When they were close to Kang-wa island the Corean batteries, containing some eighty guns, suddenly opened fire upon them. The redoubt was instantly wrapped in a sheet of flames, discharging in a few seconds about three hundred shots. One account says that these rasped the water like a hailstorm. The veterans of the civil war had never known such rapid firing. Yet only one American was wounded.

Fortunately the order to fire had been given a few seconds late; the American vessels were already out of the line of fire, and as the guns of the natives were fastened on logs, they could not be manipulated and were of no further use. The answering fire from the gunboats and launches soon cleared the fort of its defenders and a week later a punitive expedition was landed in order to teach the Coreans a necessary lesson. The force, composed of 650 men, was led by Commander L. A. Kimberly, the adjutant general being Lieutenant Commander W. Scott Schley, who was afterward to win fame as the rescuer of Lieut. Greely.

The first battery, which was attacked unexpectedly in the rear, was taken without difficulty; the works were completely demolished and the cannon rolled into the river. On the following day the next fort—"Fort Monocacy," as it was christened—was cleared by shells from the Monocacy's guns and was then dismantled by the landed troops. An advance was next made upon the citadel or principal fort, which was perched on the crest of a rocky hill. The Coreans were hovering beyond the reach of our guns in vastly superior numbers, and were evidently waiting for an opportunity to crush the little American army as soon as it had entered the ravine lying below the fort.

To defeat these tactics five howitzers and two companies of infantry were posted as a rear guard on rising ground, while the main body moved forward to storm the citadel. The Coreans attacked the howitzers in large numbers, but the excellent practice made by the American gunners under Master A. V. Wadhams scattered them effectually and prevented any large body of them from getting into close quarters with our men.

Presently, at a signal previously agreed upon, the firing from the Monocacy ceased, and amid a hail of bullets from the enemy our men sprang up the steep incline to attack the citadel. They swarmed over the ramparts or through the breaches, and in a twinkling were at close quarters with the defending garrison. The Coreans fought stubbornly to the last without asking for quarter, and were all of them slain. After that the remaining subsidiary forts were soon captured, and fifty flags and 451 pieces of artillery fell into the hands of the conquerors. The citadel was named Fort McKee, in honor of the gallant young officer who was the first over the parapet.

The defeat of 1871 probably rendered the Coreans more ready to treat peaceably with foreigners than they were before. In any case the hour for opening up the country was at hand. The process began in 1876, when a treaty was made with Japan. A party of Japanese sailors, while landing for water on Kang-wa island, were mistaken for Americans or Frenchmen and were fired upon by a neighboring fort. Japan saw her opportunity, and her fleet demanded an indemnity that certain privileges in trade be granted her. This was the first step toward the opening of the country to foreign intercourse. The Corean Japanese treaty of 1876—the first entered into by the Coreans—was concluded on the basis of free-trade, only a small amount of tonnage dues on shipping being payable. In a subsequent convention in 1877 Japan was granted the privilege of opening three coaling stations on the coast; in 1879 the harbor of Gensan, and later Chemulpo, were thrown open to Japanese commerce, all other nations being excluded from the benefits granted to Japan. In the meantime, China, which has always regarded Corea as a dependency of her empire, began to grow jealous of the increasing influence of Japan, and to counteract this hold of her inveterate enemy, encouraged, if not actually instigated, foreign powers to follow in the footsteps of Japan in concluding treaties with this "hermit kingdom," and it was with her help that Admiral Schufeldt led the way and successfully carried through a treaty between the United States and Corea in 1882. Later on commercial treaties were also negotiated by Great Britain, Germany, France, Russia and Italy.

SOME WATERLOO INVENTIONS.

Famous Sayings with Which We Are Familiar Declared Unauthentic.

Although the newspapers often print paragraphs about familiar phrases and their misapplied authorship, the mistakes, as a general rule, continue to be made. There is that story of Wellington at Waterloo, which originated, according to the Buffalo Courier, with Alison, the historian. The French having at last broken, so the tale goes, the "Iron Duke" cried to his reserves, "Up guards, and at them!" In the face of frequent denials by Wellington himself, that he ever gave such a demand, it is repeated to this day as an historical fact. An artist once went to the duke and begged to be allowed to paint him in the very attitude he took when he uttered those stirring words. "Go to the devil," said the duke. Again a dowager asked him if he really did say: "Up guards, and at them!" To this the duke replied: "I couldn't have said it, madam; it would have been absurd. What I probably did say to my staff officers was something like this: 'Gentlemen, you will now move upon the enemy's right.'"

Almost everybody believes that it was Napoleon who said: "God always favors the heaviest battalions." As a matter of fact, Tacitus was the first who was known to have used the phrase, and Voltaire and Mme. Sevigne uttered it in exactly the manner credited to Napoleon. That other familiar one: "The guard dies, but never surrenders," was attributed to Cambronne, who was made a prisoner at Waterloo. It was actually invented by Rougemont, an author of witty sayings, two days after the fight.

Becoming a Nation of Musicians.

Formerly all the mandolins used in this country were imported from Germany and Italy; now nearly all that are used here, and a great many are used, are made in this country. In the past year and a half or two years the mandolin has become very popular here, and its popularity shows no sign of diminishing. The demand for mandolins come from all parts of the country, and it is so great that wholesale dealers in musical instruments are not able to keep up with it promptly. It is said that we make in this country mandolins better than the imported, and the same is said of American guitars. Guitars made in this country are now used throughout the land, and they are also exported to all Spanish-American countries.

HIS VISIT CUT SHORT.

An Indianapolis Lady's Solicitude for the Cleanliness of Her Friends.

A certain lady of Indianapolis who had never been used to the luxury of life until after her husband made a large sum of money in the real estate business, moved into an elegant house which had, among other conveniences, a fine bath room. It was her pride, and every visitor was informed about the bath room. Guests who came from a distance were greeted with: "Now, I know you are tired and dusty after your long journey; just go right up to the bath room and you can have a refreshing bath at once." This worked well in most cases, but one day she made a mistake. She went to the door one warm summer afternoon to find a young gentleman friend of her husband's from Louisville, and she took it for granted that he was going to stay all night. So her first words after shaking hands with him were: "Now, you are tired and dusty after your journey; just go right up to the bath room; a bath will refresh you so."

In vain the young man tried to expostulate; she had him by the arm and started him up the stairway before he could get in a word. In half an hour he came down and took up his hat and stick. "I thank you very much," he said; "I enjoyed the bath very much." Then he started for the door. "Why, where are you going?" asked the hostess. "To catch my train," he answered; "I only had forty minutes to stay and my bath took half an hour, so I must hurry to catch the Chicago train." It cured the lady of showing off her bath room.

FOLLOWING FRIENDLY ADVICE.

Got a Snap on the Bicycle, But the Dealer Did Not Mourn.

"Wouldn't it be a good idea," said the disinterested friend, "to put a high grade bicycle in your window and mark it $50 or some such price? You'd lose some money on it, of course, but look at the advertising you would get out of it. Everybody in town would be talking about it inside of twenty-four hours, and your store would get a reputation for selling good machines cheap that would be worth hundreds of dollars to you."

"That's not a bad scheme," said the bicycle dealer, after thinking it over, "John," he called out to one of the boys, "put that Greased Racer in the front window and mark it $50."

"But—"

"Never mind arguing the matter. I know what I'm doing."

The Greased Lightning Racer was placed conspicuously in the show window with the $50 tag appended.

"Now," said the disinterested friend, "that looks something like it. You'll see a crowd gathering there inside of five minutes. By the way, you may just consider that machine sold. I'll take it off your hands. But I'm no hog," he added, cheerfully. "I'll let it stay in your window till to-morrow morning."

"Wasn't that rather an unhand-some trick?" asked the silent partner, after the disinterested friend had gone away.

"No," reflected the dealer. "That machine has been on hand two years, but it's worth every cent of $17.50."

Cosmetics do not beautify, but often destroy a healthy complexion. A natural rosy and healthy complexion cannot be had by the use of cosmetics, but only through the health of the body in general. THE DIVINE IN THE COMMONPLACE.

At the moment that Fate had set apart for their meeting, they met, and from heart to heart.

A bond of sympathy straightway grew, and one they became who till then were two.

Had you asked his friends to tell you aught of the kind of fellow the girl had "caught," one would have called him "an honest soul." Another, "a very good sort, on the whole." And all would assure you the man had naught of hidden depths, and they couldn't conceive ("But you can't account for a woman's whim!") Whatever the girl could see in him.

Her friends would have answered much the same.

Of the girl henceforward to bear his name, "A plain, little, inoffensive thing, Lucky to win the wedding ring; Pleasant enough, but tame as tame," And try as they might they couldn't perceive ("But a man's such a turnabout character!") Whatever her husband could see in her.

Such would have been the wise world's speech, While love transfused each for each, And she was his soul's mysterious star And he her wonderful Avatar.

—Spectator.

AN ILLUMINATION.

The rocking chair in its perfection is found only in its native land, America. The European variety of the species is but a tolerable imitation, having neither the comfort nor the elegance of the original article. Still there are rocking chairs in Europe, and a company in Austria turns out very good semblances indeed of bent wood with cane trimmings.

I was the first one out from the big hotel to the terrace in front, and therefore had my choice of all the chairs scattered so profusely around, and if none of them was so good as the big red rocking chair of the American hotel veranda, yet the Austrian article standing empty beside the little round metal table was not to be despised, so I sat down in it and lit my cigarette.

The waiter, who had followed me out, bringing a cup of black coffee, now poured out a liquor glass of the aromatic, penetrating green decoction, pouring it so deftly that it came exactly to the brim and did not spill a drop.

I have always admired the expertness of the European waiter, either with coffee or the more expensive monkish liquor.

There was a small hedge at the edge of the terrace, and I thought I had taken the last seat toward the western end, but I found I was mistaken. Behind me on the terrace was a gray green bush, and behind that bush and sheltered from the hotel lights stood another round metal table and two chairs.

Two young girls came down the hotel steps with their arms around each other in the confidential fashion of young persons still in their teens. They were aged 20 or thereabouts, and they took their places behind the bush, apparently not noticing that I was within hearing distance. By this time many people were coming out in twos and threes and little groups, and many began walking about the graveled terrace, the wise, however, securing good places at the little tables before the rush for seats began.

The deep gorge of the Rhine had filled with darkness, which the thin crest of the silver moon hanging in the sky had not light enough to penetrate. Just before going to dinner I had noticed how lovely this gorge was, with the deep green river flecked with white foam from the falls and the many tints of its surface reflecting back the splendor of the sunset sky. Now all this was gone, but almost directly below us the Rhine falls showed white and fleecy in the gathering darkness. We were some hundreds of feet above them, but their roar came up to us like the long sustained note of an organ.

The falls of the Rhine are the greatest in Europe, but you can't expect a man brought up on Niagara to was very enthusiastic about them. Still I will say this—that they are very pretty little falls about 60 feet in height, more like rapids than cataracts, but probably it would not be quite safe to shoot these Rhine rapids in a canoe. I haven't very much respect for them, but they were pretty and white and fleecy and fragile as I looked down on them from the terrace of the big hotel.

"You see," said one of the girls from behind the bush, "as soon as her parents realized how serious the case was they took her at once to Switzerland."

"Ah," said I to myself, "some poor invalid who came here with the hope of getting well, and who probably staid to die."

"Her father left the strictest injunctions that no one was to know where they were. None of the people at the office knew where the family had gone except the confidential clerk, who forwarded the letters."

"But why," said the other girl, "did they come to so public a place as the Rhine falls? I should have thought they would have been sure to have been found out."

"No," said the other girl, who must have been quite 21 years old and who knew a great deal, of course. "No; the right way when you are hiding is to go to the most public place you can. It is always in the most out of the way places that you find people you don't want to meet."

"Oh, ho!" said I to myself. "It is not a case of illness then. It looks more like a case of defalcation or something of that sort."

"They took those rooms with the long balcony in front, and they had all their meals served there. I often saw the poor girl sitting on the balcony, for they never allowed her to go out, but watched her like a couple of old cats. I think they expected her to forget in the midst of scenery like this, but it was quite evident that she forgot nothing."

"As if," said the younger girl, with some indignation in her voice—"as if the sight of the Rhine falls would make up for the sight of the person one loves."

"Ah," said I to myself, with some disappointment, "it is neither a case of consumption nor defalcation, but merely an affair of the heart."

Of course I lost interest in the conversation at once and coughed lightly to let them know I was there, but at that moment the big globe containing the carbons for the arc light began to hiss and sputter over our heads, and finally it flooded all the terrace with the steady white illumination of electricity. The girls shrieked "Oh!" at this sudden brilliancy, but went on with their talk.

"And how did he find out where they were?" asked the younger girl.

"Oh, in the most ingenious way," replied the elder. "He tried to bribe the people in the office, and, I believe, spent a lot of money, but no one knew where they were except the confidential clerk, and of course there was no use in attempting to bribe him. Then the young man remembered that the girl had told him her father, who was a strong party man, always took the Bunkum Gazette, no matter in what part of Europe he was, so he went to the Bunkum Gazette office and said to the clerk:

"I believe a mistake was made in the address of Mr. Spalding. Would you kindly look it up, so that I can correct it?" The clerk at once brought down the book, and as he opened it the young man said, "H. S. Spalding, please?" So the clerk ran his finger down the page and read out, "H. S. Spalding, Hotel Switzerland, Neuhausen, Switzerland." "Ah," said the young man, "that is quite right. I thought the paper was being sent to Bern." And so the young man left at once for Switzerland."

By this time the terrace was entirely filled up, and the electric light threw a glare over the stirring scene. It was nearly 9 o'clock, and it had become so dark that the fleecy white of the Rhine falls had entirely disappeared. Then all at once the electric lights went out, and the lights were turned out in the hotel and on the terrace, so that we sat for a time in perfect darkness.

"So he arrived one night at the Switzerland hotel just when everybody was out at the illuminations. He knew how it would be. He looked over the hotel register and found out just what apartments the Spaldings occupied. He was very particular about his room, he said, and he went up stairs with the porter to look at several. One room appeared to suit him very well because it had a little balcony which was almost within reaching distance of the long balcony in front of the Spaldings' suite. 'Who occupies these rooms next to me?' he asked. 'Oh, a very quiet English family. Old gentleman and lady, with their daughter. Very quiet people, I assure you, sir.' 'Then I'll take this room,' said the young man."

"Wasn't he clever?" cried the younger girl, with enthusiasm. "I do wish I had seen him. And how did he manage to communicate with her?"

"Well, as soon as the electric lights went out, getting ready for the illuminations, he came out on his balcony. She was sitting on the corner of her balcony, the father next, and the mother beyond. You see the father was a little deaf, and the young man knew that, so he leaned over as far as he could and whispered to her, and if there hadn't been a balcony she would have fallen over. As it was, she gave a little shriek, for she recognized his voice at once. But the moment that danger was over everything was all right, and they whispered back and forth easily enough."

"Dear, dear," said the younger girl. "It's just like a scene in a play, isn't it? And did they make it up right there in whispers?"

"Yes, they did. He said he would have a carriage out in front of the hotel the next night when the illuminations were going on at the rear, and she could slip into her room, take what she could and join him there. It seems there are some formalities requisite in Switzerland before a couple can be married here, a term of residence or something of that sort. But this could all be arranged, and he had arranged it."

"Oh, wasn't he clever?" repeated the younger girl, who seemed to have unlimited admiration for another girl's young man.

"Yes," said the elder girl. "And, curiously enough, her parents told her that the next night they were going to sit out here on the terrace for the first time since they came to this hotel, and the girl thought it was very lucky, but it wasn't as lucky as she imagined. So she had the balcony to herself and her room to herself when the eventful night came."

"She had plenty of time to pack what things she needed, and then she stole down the hotel stairs, fearing at every step she might meet either of her parents, but she reached the door without meeting any one, as every one was on the terrace to see the illuminations, and joined the young man where he was waiting for her with a carriage, and they drove off together."

"Yes," said the younger girl, "and what happened then?"

"Well," said the elder girl, "the very strangest thing in the world happened. As they were driving along the Cornice road that runs from this hotel to Neuhausen the electric light man was illuminating the town, and suddenly, as if the very spirit of mischief had come over him, he turned the light full on the road, and there, just like a magic lantern picture, stood the carriage. Every one on the terrace recognized the girl, and her parents recognized the young man."

"Oh, wasn't that terrible?" cried the younger girl, and I felt sure she clasped her hands in the darkness.

"And then what happened?"

"Oh, the old gentleman jumped up and ordered a carriage and horses, but of course it takes some time to get them ready. The mother began to cry, and the father raged up and down swearing, while everybody in the hotel seemed to wish godspeed to the young couple."

A VETERAN'S VERDICT.

The War is Over. A Well-known Soldier, Correspondent and Journalist Makes a Disclosure.

Indiana contributed her thousands of brave soldiers to the war, and no state bears a better record in that respect than it does. In literature it is rapidly acquiring an enviable place. In war and literature Solomon Yewell, well known as a writer as "Sol," has won an honorable position. During the late war he was a member of Co. M, 2d N. Y. Cavalry and of the 13th Indiana Infantry Volunteers. Regarding an important circumstance he writes as follows:

"Several of us old veterans here are using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve, Heart Cure and Nerve and Liver Pills, all of them giving splendid satisfaction. In fact, we have never used remedies that compare with them. Of the Pills we must say they are the best combination of the qualities required in a preparation of their nature we have ever known. We have none but words of praise for them. They are the outgrowth of a new principle in medicine, and tone up the system wonderfully. We say to all, try these remedies."

—Solomon Yewell, Marion, Ind., Dec. 5, 1892.
